HUE · HOTEL & SPA

VIETNAM'S LAST IMPERIAL CAPITAL

Hue's mysteries run deep, with extravagant palaces guarding secrets, historic garden houses protecting family legacies and crumbling tombs hiding in the hills. North of the river sits Hue's magnificent citadel, surrounded by imposing city walls. South of the river sits Hue's colonial mansions, historic train station and a snaking canal lined with trees and garden houses.

HUE'S TREASURES

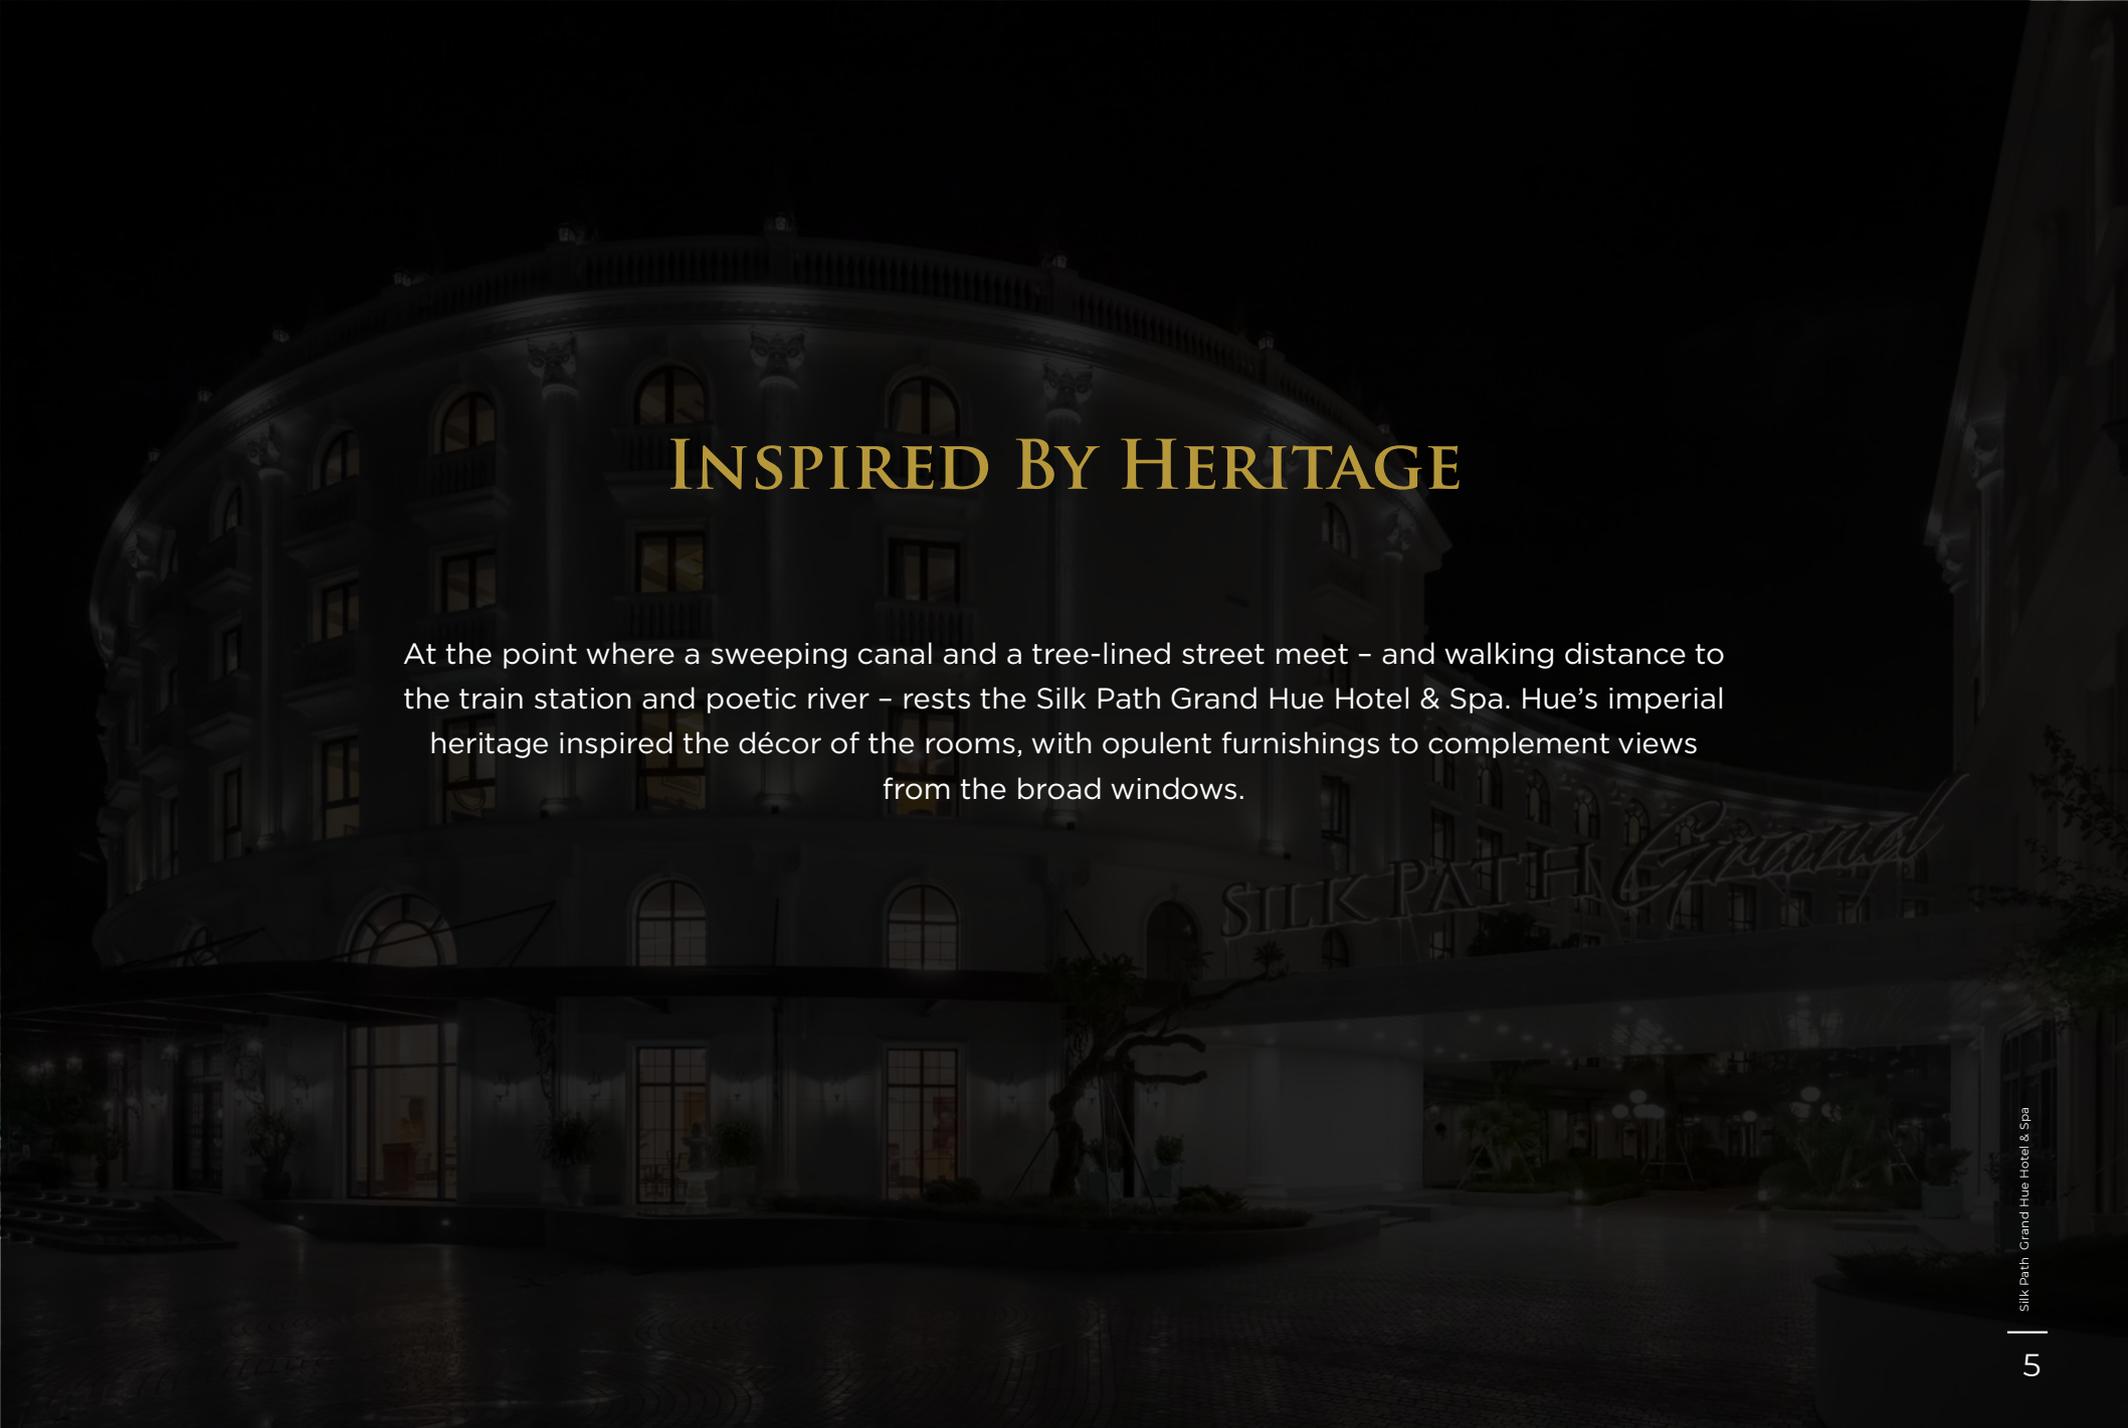

The Imperial City, built by the Nguyen kings, is encased by a wall, surrounded by a moat and features both French colonial and Vietnamese royal architecture. Nearby you can explore a collection of heritage garden houses such as An Hien Garden House, which has been cared for by a doting family for generations.

Giant garden memorials commemorating the kings of old, Hue's UNESCO-recognized tombs are a definitive highlight of a trip to Hue. Towering pagodas and glistening temples dot the countryside, most of which have been places of worship for decades.

INSPIRED BY HERITAGE

At the point where a sweeping canal and a tree-lined street meet – and walking distance to the train station and poetic river – rests the Silk Path Grand Hue Hotel & Spa. Hue's imperial heritage inspired the décor of the rooms, with opulent furnishings to complement views from the broad windows.

Hue is not known as a city of business, but that doesn't mean it's not a good place to get some work done or take some quiet time to yourself. We crafted our An Nam Lounge as both business center, where you can be inspired to be productive, and reading lounge, where you can enjoy some peace and quiet

NAM PHUONG RESTAURANT

Named after Vietnam's last queen, Nam Phuong specializes in authentic Hue cuisine, but you'll find many other Vietnamese dishes, too. For those wanting a taste of home, you'll also find some western favorites on the menu.
